Our Vision

“A world that is able to develop in a sustainable way through the use of renewable energy”

Itzama's history

Itzamà was born from the passion of a group of highly skilled professionals with experiences in both profit and non-profit sector, who believe in an alternative business' approach where profit can be directed to ethical and social goals.

Our Mission

“Become a key player in the renewable energy and energy efficiency sector to facilitate a sustainable development in the emerging countries through the transfer of knowledge and the promotion of energetic independence”

Sector of affiliation

To achieve its Mission Itzamà has been inspired by the Kyoto Protocol and it is committed to develop, implement and monitor the Clean Development Mechanism projects (CDM) in emerging countries to favor their sustainable development through the use of renewable energies and energy efficiency programs.

CDMs enable industrialized countries to compensate their greenhouse emission through the implementation, in emerging countries, of renewable energies' projects approved by the United Nations. The purpose of CDM is a two fold: it offers an opportunity for emerging countries to use cleaner technologies to produce energy that will contribute towards a sustainable development; it produces credits of emission reduction (CERs) for industrialized countries with bond of emission.

Itzama's activity

Itzamà has decided to position itself as intermediary inside this new and growing market of Kyoto's flexible mechanisms; with its growing knowledge and experience, Itzamà is acting as a consultant in converting current energetic initiatives into CDM's projects highlighting the return on investment that the Kyoto flexible mechanism's offers.

Itzamà also offers the opportunity to create a liaison between companies which are willing to get involved into a CDM project in emerging countries coordinating all the work by transferring technologies and technological skills.

Itzamà is focusing on a business model that, through the Clean Development Mechanism, facilitates the expansion of the SME and helps the emerging countries towards an energetic independence which is more and more becoming a necessity.
